

I Hope They Call Me on a Mission – Around the World Game

Do you remember the Elementary school game called Around the World? We'll adapt it here with a fun themed activity that ties in wonderfully with I Hope They Call Me on a Mission!

How to Play:

- Sing I Hope They Call Me on a Mission once before introducing the activity.
- Start with the first child in the child in front row and ask them to think of a Mission (or a place somewhere in the world that might have an LDS Mission). If they can name one, they score a point for the kids' team! If not, the teachers can help, and the point goes to the teachers.
- You'll start with I, then move on to H-O-P-E, etc until you make your way through the whole song title. The mission can be the city or country name (or any part of the official name – list included!). Use the 4-page poster to help the kids follow along with what letters come next. When you get to a gray space (between words) sing through the song again!
  - o There are 25 letters and 7 blanks. So depending on how many kiddos you have in Primary you can also add letting whichever child it randomly lands on when you get to the grey space gets to lead the song (with a friend if they are shy).
- Show the kids the list at the end (or bring it out early if they need help!) and awe them with how many different missions there are! Ask the kids where is somewhere they would like to go on a mission to?

Extension Activities:

- Adaptation for Junior Primary: You can whisper a mission into the littlest helpers' ears and let them name the mission out loud! Or you can let a child hold up a picture of a picture that represents a variety of missions instead of naming specific missions.
- Shorter version: Just spell Mission with 7 helpers. I've included seven locations that start with M-I-S-S-I-O-N with their flags.
- Word Actions: Each time you finish a word, just before singing the song through again, add a fun action for the word you finished. Stack them up until you have 8 fun *simple* actions for the first line of the song!
  - o A possible pattern could be: Clap – Pat Lap – Clap – Pat Lap – Clap – Stomp – Stomp - Spin
